Our Own Introductions

of Extra Early Flowering Varieties

The following varieties which we have developed are extra early flowering, have intense coloring, and except for those varieties marked dwarf, have stem length for cutting unusual in early varieties. All bloom in September, and have been the outstanding attraction in Hardy Mums the past two years at the Columbus Flower Show. To those who have tried our varieties introduced in 1944 and 1945 no further introduction is necessary. These varieties will add to your display, and in parts of the country where frosts come early will be the type you have been looking for.

NEW GIANT HARDY MUMS

New Early Flowering Hardy English Chrysanthemums

Be the first to grow these mums

The early English Chrysanthemums are a new race of Chrysanthemums. They originated in England. Some of the West Coast Canadian growers first imported them from England. Then several growers started growing them in the State of Washington. We secured our stock from one of these growers. They are equal in hardiness with any garden chrysanthemum and they are rated so far superior to the old garden chrysanthemums that there is no comparison.

This new race of Chrysanthemums are all early flowering.

These new Chrysanthemums are much larger than ordinary garden varieties. They are like the greenhouse Mums. Many have incurved petals and are very solid. They should be disbudded same way florists do the large mums, to 8 to 12 blooms to the plant, and it is almost unbelievable the lovely flowers you can raise and the immense size of the blooms.

We have had considerable correspondence in regard to growing these English mums. We have found that early planting of the plants or divisions by June 1st in our locality, pinching the tops out after they reach a height of 6 to 8 inches, and disbudding down to 8 to 12 blooms per plant make them bloom much earlier and give those immense flowers, on good sturdy stems. We have found these mums hardy here in Ohio, without protection, and feel they are as hardy as any of the regular garden Chrysanthemums.

Hardy chrysanthemums are the best fall flowers. They bloom when other flowers are through. These new varieties come in a wide range of colors that will delight and amaze you. They will extend the season—giving you cut flowers long after all other flowers are gone—and with little care provide you with flowers for years to come. No other hardy flowers require less care for so much satisfaction.

All of our varieties have been hardy with us, being tested in the open field in temperatures that have reached 10 below zero. However, some loose covering like straw or corn stalks might help in very severe winters if put on after ground is well frozen in the early winter.

Hardy chrysanthemums should be divided each year into single plants and set 2 ft. apart in rows and the tops pinched out and keep pinching new growths into symmetrical plants until July 1st. This will make large bushy plants that will stand erect without staking. Well rotted manure worked in the soil is fine, but lacking this a complete fertilizer used according to manufacturers' instructions will answer almost as well.

WARRANTY—We give no guarantee, expressed or implied, as to the color, hardiness or description of any plants, seeds or other matter we sell and shall not be liable for the crop or productiveness thereof. Any claims of any kind shall be made within 5 days upon receipt of goods. We shall have the right in all cases to determine amount of loss and in no case shall it be more than original amount paid by the customer for plants or other material.
